Frosh Enrollment Sets All-Time High

MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE LIBRARY SEP 28 1951

MIDDLEBURY Campus

NUMBER 1 | MIDDLEBURY, VT., SEPTEMBER 20, 1951 | VOL. XLVIII

Largest Class In 151 Yrs. Has 228 Men-139 Women

The largest freshman class in Middlebury's 151 year history, numbering 367 men and women, has enrolled for the 1951-52 academic year. This total includes 228 freshman men and 139 freshman women. In addition, four transfer men, four transfer women and one Bowdoin plan student matriculated.

The total expected enrollment is 1200 undergraduates, 16 graduate students and one special student.

The entering freshman come from 22 states, the District of Columbia and Arabia, Australia, Canada, Hawaii, Norway, the Philippines, and Puerto Rico. 81 per cent come from New England, New York and New Jersey.

Most freshman women will live in the Battell Halls under the system inaugurated last year. Freshman men, however, will be housed in all four men's dormitories unlike last year's system with Painter and Starr Halls exclusively for freshmen.

Porter House, on North Pleasant Street, will house 22 sophomore women. The building was vacant last year and previously had housed freshman men.

Four junior women and four sophomore women will live in the Spanish house at 21 College Street, last year the residence of Dr. Walter Clark, associate professor of education.

The Ross House, on Storrs Avenue, last year the Spanish house, is now the residence of the new college chaplain, Rev. Charles P. Scott, who will have offices on the second floor of the student union building.

Outing Planned For Freshmen

The Mountain Club will hold its annual Freshman outing this year behind Forest Hall, Saturday, September 22. The activities, to be guided by members of the Mountain Club and Skyline, will last during the afternoon from 2:00 to 6:30. Frosh and transfers will have a chance to get acquainted during the informal "ceremonies" where old clothes are in order. Initiates will be entertained with games, mystery hunts and songs.

New Midd-R.P.I. Five Year Study Plan Instituted

Following an educational trend of providing scientists and engineers with a broader base of general education, Middlebury College recently announced that it will join with Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in a five year joint program of studies.

Under this program Middlebury will give the participating student three years of liberal arts studies as a foundation for two years of concentrated attention on a chosen special field at the Troy, N.Y. institute. Along with their liberal arts curriculum at Middlebury students will put special emphasis on the basic sciences and mathematics. At the conclusion of the five years the student will receive degrees from both colleges.

Last spring Middlebury joined with the Columbia School of Engineering in a similar five year program. Since 1936 Middlebury has maintained a program of the same type with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Draft Beckons Deferred Men

Colonel Kent, State Director of Selective Service, has announced that college students who fail to attain a satisfactory mark on the draft test or whose grades do not meet the specified requirements can be called out of college for induction if their induction has already been postponed once under statutory provision.

However, students who fail to meet the above requirements and who have not been previously considered for induction will be allowed to finish the academic year providing they notify their local board of the facts.

Students who have met the class standing requirements or who have obtained a score of 70 or better on the Selective Service test may be deferred by the local boards from year to year until their graduation. They must, however, continue to maintain high scholastic averages if they wish to be considered for the additional periods of deferment.

Under the Selective Service Act of 1948 any person who was ordered to report for induction while satisfactorily pursuing a full time course of instruction could present the facts to his local board and his induction would be postponed. Under this act he could receive such postponements successively -- that is, he would not be inducted during any academic year after he had started it. This had the effect of protecting most college students against induction except during the summer vacations.

Scobie Resigns; Bound for Brazil

Jordan R. Scobie, Registrar at Middlebury College since 1942, has resigned his position effective the 1st, President Samuel S. Stratton announced recently. At the same time, President Stratton revealed that Miss Marion E. Holmes, assistant registrar would succeed Scobie.

Mr. Scobie has accepted appointment as sub manager of the National City Bank of New York in Sao Paulo, Brazil. From 1918 to 1932 he was associated with this same bank, holding posts in Bahia and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, in Santiago, Chile, and Paris. He came to Middlebury College in 1933 as mortgage agent. In 1941 he also assumed the duties of purchas-

New Instructors Teach Economics, Math, Physics, Language Courses

Six new instructors have joined the Middlebury College faculty this fall according to an announcement made by President Samuel S. Stratton.

Milton H. Cluff, a 1948 graduate from Middlebury will teach in the mathematics department. He received his Master's degree at Harvard and is continuing his doctorate work there. An army man for three years during World War II, Mr. Cluff spent the past summer touring England and the continent on a bike.

A veteran member of the Middlebury Russian Summer School and former student of the University of Leningrad, Aron S. Pressman is a new instructor in the Russian department. Previous to his arrival at Middlebury this year, Mr. Pressman taught at the City College of New York under the Army Specialized Training Program.

A graduate of Yale and Columbia Universities and a former U.S. Navy man, Philip A. Macklin joins the Midd physics department as an instructor. His former experience includes a year as a physicist at Oak Ridge.

Seymour Friedland, a former employee of the U. S. Government in the Bureau of Census and the Department of Labor is a new addition to Middlebury's economics department. He received his Bachelor's and Master's degrees at Boston University and did additional graduate work at Rutgers.

Europe has contributed the other two members to the faculty. Miss Michele Roppe, a Parisienne, will instruct in the Chateau, and Miss Marina Bourgeal, a native of Madrid, will be a lecturer in the Spanish department and house director of the Spanish House. Miss Bourgeal received her B.S. and M.A. degrees at the Universidad Central in Spain and taught Latin and Greek in Madrid secondary schools.

Kaleid Sports Editors Named

MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE LIBRARY SEP 28 1951

Roger B. May '53, and William P. Marseilles '53, have been appointed sports editors of the 1952 Kaleidoscope, Phyllis H. Laidlaw '53, editor, recently announced.

Miss Laidlaw also announced a meeting on Monday, September 24th, at 4:30 in the North Lounge of the Student Union for freshmen and upperclassmen interested in trying out for positions on both the editorial and business staffs. There are a variety of positions available for anyone wishing to work on this year's college yearbook.

Some Voluntary Services Offered

The combined efforts of student, faculty, administration and trustee committees has resulted in a revised daily Chapel program, instituted this morning with a voluntary attendance devotional service. Announcement of the altering of the daily Chapel format was made by President Samuel S. Stratton in a letter sent to all Middlebury undergraduates.

The President also announced the appointment of Reverend Charles P. Scott as the new chaplain.

OPTIONAL SERVICES

Outstanding feature of the new Chapel system, reflecting a working out of difficulties by the various committees, is a new system of voluntary and required attendance at devotional as well as assembly meetings. Under the new program, voluntary devotional services, led by the Chaplain will be held each Monday morning. On Tuesdays, juniors and seniors will be required to attend devotional services. The freshman and sophomore required service will be held regularly on Wednesday mornings. Thursday will be optional devotional services. The Assembly meetings, highlighted by student and faculty participation, will be required of juniors and seniors on Friday, and of freshman and sophomores on Saturday. No changes have been made in the program, or in the attendance requirements for Sunday Vespers.

CO-ED SEATING

The new system, aside from over all program changes, has brought with it several alterations in the attendance and seating procedure of daily Chapel. Men and women will be given individual tickets as they enter the Chapel. These tickets, which vary in code number from day to day, will be given one to a student, who will sign and place them in any one of several receptacles in the vestibule on the way out. This ticket system, successfully employed by Dartmouth and other New England colleges for many years, will be used for both devotional

For Freshmen Only

There are many reasons for coming to college. Different ones have assuredly been recommended to the freshmen during the hectic days of Freshman Week. Advice and suggestions will not end there, for the freshmen in their willingness to listen, and in their ability to change, are perfect targets for the heaps of well-wished words tossed their way by everyone who learned from experience. We are not exceptions.

A standby Middlebury motto for many years has been, " to college with a purpose." There are few among us who would not recommend coming to college with a purpose. Yet, considerably less than half of the freshman class listed any vocational objective or tentative major in applications returned to both admissions offices. Does this mean that the majority have no purpose in coming to college?

We have long believed that not everyone can come to college with a purpose, that is, with a specific occupational end in mind. But certainly we can all come to college to find a purpose. College years are searching years; they are not easy years. They are years filled with unanswered questions, simply because many questions have no ready made solutions.

The freshman, as they well know, have a tremendous opportunity. They also have the responsibility to take full advantage of the courses, the professors, the extra-curricular and social activities; in fact, everything that Middlebury offers them. But they should make up their minds and respond to the opportunities deliberately.

No matter what the individual course of action may be, the freshmen would do well to remember that few come to college with a purpose. Many more find a purpose while they are here.

Chapel and the Chaplain

This morning a new Chapel program and a new Chaplain were introduced to the Middlebury undergraduates. This program deserves a fair trial before judgment is passed.

The Chapel controversy has already made clear certain conclusions. The college undergraduates have learned that Middlebury is an amenable institution, willing to respond to intelligent and sincere student demand for change. We have learned through discussions on Chapel that the administration and trustees respect our opinions, and are willing to alter college traditions in an effort to maintain a harmonious college community. We have learned that many hours of hard work, coupled with a willingness to iron out difficulties, can do wonders. Most important, the Middlebury undergraduates have learned from the Chapel controversy that with sustained interest they can bring about changes in the basic college structure.

There will be those, no doubt, who will criticize the retention of compulsory religious services, citing that a reduction of required services from three to two each week is not really altering the Chapel program. There are many who would rather have seen a revision which eliminated all compulsory attendance at religious services. Their opinions will still have to be reckoned with.

A large group on the campus has long believed that the basic fault with the previous Chapel program was the inadequate religious content and lack of variety in the service, and not in the attendance regulations. It was this group who said that few would complain about going to Chapel if the services were stimulating and worth-while. The administration, responding to student demands for an improved Chapel service, has engaged a new Chaplain, whose primary responsibility will be to conduct and supervise the daily Chapel exercises. His task, as we all know, is a tough one. We have talked with him, and he knows what he is up against. He has been forewarned about student opinion concerning Chapel. He knows of the childish pranks played last year. Yet he still welcomes the opportunity to make these exercises a fundamental part of our lives. We admire a man with his courage. He deserves our support.

Diary of a Freshman or One Week at Middlebury

By Jan West '52

" Freshman Week" -- a seven-day accelerated course on Middleburiana, guaranteed to transform anyone into the typical, well-informed, well-rounded, Middlebury freshman. Everything is incorporated from beanies and name-tags to dances and teas to help the newcomers get a lease on their new Middlebury life.

* * * * * * * *

Sunday night: The freshman men were welcomed by Blue Key and the women by their Junior Advisors, for their first introduction into Middlebury rules and regulations - the plague of freshmen everywhere.

Monday: After tests and registration in the morning, student advisors met with the freshmen under a program sponsored by the Student Educational Policy Committee, a program designed to give the freshmen the benefit of advice from a student's point of view. Also appointments were listed with faculty advisors to complete their schedules and prepare them for the academic side of Middlebury life.

President Stratton welcomed the new students at their opening assembly Monday night, where they were also introduced to other members of the faculty. This was followed by a song fest and dance, sponsored by Blue Key, to get their social life underway.

Tuesday: More tests and meetings followed. Wig and Pen dramatic society entertained the freshmen with " The Twelve-Pound Look," a one-act play with Peg Groff, Ron Hannah, Bob Ringer, and Barb Mills, Followed by a tour of the playhouse and short demonstrations on dramatics at Middlebury.

Tuesday night the freshman women attended a meeting of the Women's Student Union in Chapel. Talks were given by Dean Elizabeth B. Kelly, Carol C. Holmes '52, President of the Student Union and Jeanne H. Badeau '52, President of Mortar Board, to introduce student government to the newcomers.

Wednesday: Another full day saw the freshmen being photographed, attending the President's reception and, for the men, " Midd Night" to present Middlebury traditions and customs. For the women, there was the Student Union tea where brief introductory talks were given on all campus organizations.

Saturday: " Freshman Week" program completed. Mountain Club will sponsor an outdoor supper and program of games, scavenger hunt, and singing. Freshman women will attend their traditional " Midd Night" with skits and singing, while a " Sports' Night" has been planned for the men.

* * * * * * * *

Finally, with the do's and don'ts freshly imprinted on their minds plus all the informal get-to-gethers and bull sessions - no longer strangers but full-fledged Middleburyites, the freshmen were ready for Thursday's announcement: " Classes according to schedule."

and assembly programs. The system does allow for one feature which is not practiced at Dartmouth. Men and women will be allowed to sit together in any part of the Chapel.

Under the new program two unexcused absences per semester are permitted for compulsory Chapel services, two absences for compulsory Assembly, and one absence per semester for Sunday Chapel. Sunday Vespers service on September 23 at 5:00 P.M., will be compulsory for freshmen and sophomores; on September 30 for juniors and seniors. Compulsory Sunday attendance follows on alternate weeks.

Chaplain Scott

Rev. Charles P. Scott, the new college Chaplain, comes to Middlebury from Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where he was associate minister of the Washington Park Presbyterian Church. A graduate of Ohio State, Class of '42, Chaplain Scott served at the university during the war doing government research in biology. He was also a graduate assistant there. The changeover from science to religion occurred shortly after the war, when Chaplain Scott began advanced studies at Princeton Theological School. While attending Princeton, he also taught bible and general science at Lawrenceville prep school. Chaplain Scott went directly to Milwaukee from Princeton.

HOLIDAY HILL

SALISBURY, VERMONT

Ever since last May's spectacular weenie roast, we have been hustling to get a new HOLIDAY HILL back on its foundation in time to welcome the return of our regular Middlebury friends and the new crop of Freshmen—their parents and friends.

All things being equal, the big house should be ready for guests early in November, and in the meantime, the cottages—warm, quiet and attractive—will be open until cold weather. Our Continental Breakfast? Of course! Come on down and see what WE have been doing on OUR vacation!

Nelson Plans 40 Man Grid Squad, Single Wing

It's A Good Bet

By Ed Hickcox

DRASTIC CHANGES

One week from Saturday Middlebury inaugurates the 1951-52 athletic year against Wesleyan University, and if the June issue of the Alumni Newsletter is correct, "the athletic program will be drastically changed."

The big thing of course is the no-freshman rule. This year, for the first time, green freshmen were invited back early to get their first taste of college life on the gridiron. Duke extended the call to any likely looking prospect, but he plans to keep only twelve of them on the permanent squad. No junior varsity squad is comtemplated in any sport because allowing the privilege in one branch would only arouse pangs of jealousy among the others.

There are changes in the coaching staff due mainly to the departure of Dick Ciccolella. Sam Guarnaccia is taking his place as football line coach with Duke Nelson and Bobo Sheehan holding their regular positions as head coach and backfield coach. Sheehan, ski coach during the winter, will head up the baseball team come springtime. He got his first taste of masterminding the national pastime last spring when he took over the now defunct frosh squad from Red Kelley. Ralph Myhre, a local man who runs the Maples Cabins on Route 7, will replace Joe Jones as manager of the Snow Bowl.

SPORTS AFIELD

Jack Mulcahy, former Middlebury football and baseball great, played second base for the Hartford Chiefs in the Eastern League this summer. Jack held a regular berth on this Class A Club for most of the year. His fielding could be termed sensational, but he was very erratic at the plate with a batting average of around .250.

Wendy Forbes, at the top in anyone's book, made good in the Class B Redbirds Club of Allentown, Pa., a farm Club of the St. Louis Cardinals. He was in the running for most valuable player and seems slated for a higher classification. Ralph Loveys didn't let Uncle Sam keep him from sports because he is currently playing football -- with the marines at Parris Island. Jim Newman is pitching for an army team and winning games regularly. They call him "iron man Newman" because he once pitched and won games on successive days.

John Moreau, whose name you never read on the sports pages, is now sports editor of the Freehold, N. J., "Transcript".

Olympic skier Verne "Fuzz" Goodwin plans to take about six weeks off for Olympic competition in Norway and then return for the remainder of the school year. The downhill-slalom specialist took almost the same amount of time off last semester and still made the Dean's list.

Former Midd Stars Guide Gridmen

By Roger May

Deep in the dark recesses of Porter Field these days three men are doing a job that would put the celebrated witches of Macbeth to shame. Not content with toying with the future of one man alone, these three are guiding the destinies of the forty athletes that comprise the 1952 Middlebury football team.

The job faced by the three is a big one and needs big men to carry it out. Certainly the Middlebury coaching staff fills all qualifications. All are living proof that great athletes can be good coaches.

Little needs to be said about Head Coach Duke Nelson who, after six years in that position, closely rivals Gameliel Painter in Middlebury tradition. The Duke is as famous for his effervescent personality as for his talents on the gridiron. In his undergraduate days at Midd he proved to be quite a sports phenomenon starring in six sports before graduating in 1932. Thirteen years later he returned to his alma mater and developed the great post-war football teams that brought national fame to Middlebury.

Starting his fourth season as backfield coach under Nelson is Bobo Sheehan, whose great football achievements at Middlebury have been overshadowed by his even greater accomplishments on the ski trails.

The one change in the coaching setup involves Sam Guarnaccia's taking over the line coach job handled by Dick Ciccolella last year. Although this is his first season as a varsity coach, Guarnaccia is definitely not unknown in Midd athletics. Along with Nelson he was chosen for the all-time Panther football team by the Sesquicentennial Kaleid last year.

Twelve Frosh Retained; Ends, Backs Show Promise

Middlebury football hopes for 1951 will revolve around a forty man squad and a basic single wing attack with variations. Using frosh for the first time, Duke Nelson plans to stick to the simple single wing rather than the trickier T formation in view of the team's in-experience. He will, however, capitalize on the unusual strength of his ends by frequent passing.

Ulysses J. (Tony) Lupien, former Boston Red Sox first baseman, has been given a one year contract as seasonal coach of varsity basketball, Director of Athletics Arthur M. Brown has announced.

A former Harvard basketball (1939) and baseball (1938) captain, Lupien joined the Philadelphia Phillies after leaving the Red Sox in 1944. Following a hitch in the Navy he played with the Chicago White Sox in 1948 and with Detroit in 1949. This past season he was player-manager for a Detroit farm club.

His basketball experience includes officiating at high school and college games and coaching at the Rivers School, Brookline, Mass.

Lupien replaces Dick Ciccollela as basketball coach. Ciccollela was released last year as an economy move.

Seventeen lettermen headed by co-captains Bob Stalker and Burt Rathburn return to give Duke at least a nucleus with which to work. Twelve freshmen are being retained from a large number invited back. Although there are now about sixty men on the squad it will be "groomed" in the near future to bring the number down to forty.

The backfield appears to be quite strong with speed a feature. No positions are set as yet but Captain Rathburn and Stalker, Dick Allen, Dick Worthington, Don Beers, John Roy, Harry Myers and Rem Burbank are experienced men for the most part, and their speed would make most coaches green with envy. George Atwell, Garland Corey, Martin Durkin, Peter Ehler, Frank Gianforti, Bernard Kupilik, Dick Makin, Harry Phillips and John Zabriskie round out backfield candidates.

In the line the situation does not seem to be as bright as it was last year. Fish Herring, Irv Morris, Jack Varney and Karl Limbach are lettermen who saw a lot of action last season. Herring, however, is out for some time with an injured ankle. Kupilik, Bill Kane, Fred Gruman, Don Fredrickson, Al MacKinnon are other veteran linemen.

Ron Prinn, in line for the center position, is not out this year, but Mike Alvaro and Dick Day are working into the slot. Higgins, Kaplan and Mason are also candidates.

For ends, Duke and his aides, Bobo Sheehan and Sam Guarnaccia, have Big Bill Cahill, George Christian, Clark Alvord, Buzz Tilton, and Jake Taylor as veterans. The biggest news in this department, however, is a six foot four, 195 pound freshman named Al Dennis who, according to Bobo Sheehan, "is one of the best end prospects the college ever had."
